
Anikina Nataliia

Since childhood, I have been surrounded by nature.
There were huge old trees around my house,
shady garden enchanted and drew attention
by its mysterious bended branches and little meadows
of forget-me-nots and violets.

I have always felt joy with the beauty of nature, its mystery and intangibility.
A usual landscape could become alive with some miraculous light.
And I wanted to preserve its tender lines, bright color and short lifetime.

There is so much beauty around me -- architecture, vast fields, changeable sea, etc. --
and this defined my destiny, my love for art
and reflection of the Nature in my works.

I also like painting portraits,
but most of all I am inspired by splashes of colors,
harmony, refinement and smooth lines of flowers.

I want to share this thin vibration of the light,
changeability and lightness
and unpredictability of the watercolors.
