
Alexandra Antonova - Fedoskino lacquer painting.

Alexandra Viktorovna Antonova, born 1976.

Since childhood, she loved drawing and painting and besides regular school, she attended an optional Art school.
Then there was a College of Arts and Crafts in Moscow, where she realized that her choice of future profession was truly the call of her heart.
Continuing the Art education, she got a degree in "Design and Applied Art" in 2002.
Her life is fully connected with artshe both teaches and participates in exhibitions.
Since 2004 she has been a member of Artist Union of Applied art.
Her works are housed at the museum of Applied Art in Moscow and private collections in Russia and abroad.

Love for life, Motherland, family and art helps her create.
Skills gained at schools and colleges united with the call of the heart make the result of creation worth admiration.
